

UNIVERSITÀ DEGLI STUDI DI TORINO

New Directions in the Study of Mind Project

Intentionality, Modality, and Constitution

Auditorium Quazza

Palazzo Nuovo

Via S. Ottavio
20, Turin

Department of Philosophy and Education Sciences
University of Turin

Italy

Programme

November 10, morning

9.30 - 11.00 am
Kevin Mulligan
(Universities of Geneva
and Lugano, Switzerland):

Attitudes, Knowledge & Operations

11.00 - 11.30 am
coffee break

11.30 am - 1.00 pm
Michael Martin
(University College
London, UK and
University of California,
Berkeley, US):

Betwixt Feeling and Thinking: Two-Level Accounts of Experience

November 10, afternoon

2.30 - 4.00 pm
Patrick Engisch
(University of Fribourg, Switzerland):

Intentionality and Conceptual Dependence

4.00 - 4.30 pm
coffee break

4.30 - 6.00 pm
Ori Simchen (University of British Columbia,
Vancouver, Canada):

Semantic Determinacy

6.00 - 7.30 pm
Carola Barbero
(University of Turin, Italy):

Are Literary Objects Intentional Objects?

November 11, morning

9.30 - 11.00 am
Johannes Brandl
(University of Salzburg, Austria):

A Minimalist Defence of the Object-Content Distinction

11.00 - 11.30 am
coffee break

11.30am - 1.00 pm
Alberto Voltolini
(University of Turin, Italy):

Intentionality as Constitution

Dipartimento di Filosofia e Scienze dell'Educazione

Sponsored by  John Templeton Foundation

The workshop is held under the auspices of FINO (Ph.D. North-West Italy Consortium in Philosophy) and SIFA (Italian Society for Analytic Philosophy)

For more info contact the organizers

Carola Barbero (carola.barbero@unito.it)

Alberto Voltolini (alberto.voltolini@unito.it)